DEAN'S MESSAGE

There is always a poignant moment for me at each Commencement ceremony - as I look out at the sea of graduates, it is with the realisation that they are now our Alumni and future leaders.

It is this Alumni community that exemplifies our vision to be the leading business school in Asia, globally recognised for excellence in education and research. We have built this community through our mission to advance knowledge and develop leaders who will serve society and business.

The outcome is a strong Alumni body who have taken on leadership positions around the world. Our graduates are excelling in a wide array of industries that have contributed to Asia's growth and development.

These are the role models, mentors and doyens who are leading from Asia and trailblazing a path for NUS Business School. They are the exemplars to our students, faculty and staff through their contributions to industry and society.

Tonight, we are proud to celebrate and honour our alumni. And as we celebrate the School's 50th Anniversary, I am confident that we will continue to produce eminent leaders for many years to come.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF SINGAPORE BUSINESS SCHOOL EMINENT BUSINESS ALUMNI AWARDS

The NUS Business School Eminent Business Alumni Awards recognise the achievements of the School's graduates who have attained a high level of achievement in their field of business and management competencies in the public or private sectors. This highly prestigious award raises awareness of these outstanding alumni and honours their noteworthy achievements and contributions to the society.

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE AWARDS COMMITTEE

We have been honouring eminent alumni who have made a difference in industry and society since 2008. Their achievements are a reflection of both their accomplishments in local business and that of NUS Business School's vision of excellence. This prestigious group of people is the reason why we come together to award the NUS Business School Eminent Business Alumni Awards.

Every two years, the selection committee goes through a rigorous process to select the recipients. This year, we had to narrow down 23 nominations to identify the final 10 over much debate; a testament to the quality of the nominees.

This year, we have the opportunity to recognise alumni in three categories – Senior Alumni Awards, Young Alumni Awards and Alumni Service Awards. These are either definitive trailblazers in their respective fields, or Alumni who have shown exceptional dedication in serving the School or the NUS community. One thing they all have in common is that they all lead by example, making a positive impact in all they do.

Mr Tan Soo Khoon

Mr Gan Giap Leong

Mr Simon Phua Kheng Jin

Mr Tan Soo Khoon BBA Hons 1971

Former Member and Speaker of Parliament
Managing Director, Crystal Time (S) Pte Ltd

Mr Tan Soo Khoon is a former People's Action Party Member of Parliament and Speaker of the House. He was first elected to Parliament in 1976 at the age of 27 and served through 7 terms (30 years). In 1984 he was elected Deputy Speaker and in 1989 he became Speaker till 2002 when he returned to the backbench until his retirement from politics in 2006. During his stint as the Speaker, he was also President of AIPO (ASEAN Inter-Parliamentary Organisation) for 3 terms.

As Speaker he is remembered for his fairness to both sides of the House, allowing members of both the ruling party and the opposition to speak their minds. As a backbencher he is also remembered for his incisive speeches and sense of humor which he injected into his speeches. His notes to fellow MPs would be signed off "The Watchman", a take on his private business and his role as Speaker. When he stepped down as Speaker after 13 years, Mr Tan, with his brutal honesty and openness immediately made it known that as a backbencher, he could still "shake the House". Many of his speeches provided witty, pointed, even scathing, criticisms about certain government policies and expenditures, such as the extravagance of certain public buildings and the rising cost of public transportation. He wowed many with his well-researched, frank and sharp speeches on many issues of the day such as the burden of the GST increases on the poor and the rising cost of living.

In a tribute by Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong on April 15th 2006, he said of Tan Soo Khoon, "He makes very good speeches in Parliament. Sometimes, he draws blood... Sometimes he has offended ministers, but he has spoken his mind."

Mr Tan helms his family business, watch distributorship Crystal Time, and also serves on the board of several publicly-listed companies. He is the Honorary President and Advisor of the Singapore Clock and Watch Trade Association. Since 2007 he has been serving as Singapore's Non-Resident Ambassador to the Czech Republic.
